FROM THE PRINCIPAL'S DESK

It's Still All About Jesus - Even When We are Feeling Loved by Others

Reprinted with permission of LCMS School Ministry

Love may be one of the most studied words, spoken words, and least understood words in our world these days. We are told that one of the most basic needs we have is to be loved and to love others. Sounds so simple! Easy to say — hard to do.

When we are loved, we can feel secure, we can have a positive sense of well-being and, overall, we can judge that life is good. What a blessing to have a home where love abounds, where parents love their children and children feel loved.

A household that is void of love, or at least lacking love in some ways, creates a struggle for children. They can become unsure of themselves, and miss out on needed support that will enable them to become loving adults themselves.

The world seeks love. Take note of any number of pop songs over the last 50 years and you will hear the search for love in songs like "I Want to Know What Love Is" and "Lookin' for Love," just to name a couple. This world is seeking a deeper understanding and experience of the word "love."

A home that communicates love in meaningful ways reflects God's design for families. It is a place where the Lord Jesus is in the center of family activities and daily life. God by His very nature is love. He desires to show His mercy and love to His children, which He has done — most noticeably through the sending of His Son, Jesus Christ, to be our Savior by dying on the cross of Calvary for our sins. This is true love, that a Father would sacrifice His only Son to redeem the creation that went astray from the Creator.

God desires to have homes and families live in love. This is best accomplished when they connect with the God of love, when they as a family worship together on a regular basis, when they read and study Scripture together, when they pray together and when they serve others in the name of Jesus.

There may be times when there is that wonderful feeling of love in our homes and among the members of our family. What a joy to see love experienced firsthand among our loved ones. When that occurs, give thanks and praise to the One who is love, the One who gave Himself in love. Even when we sense and feel this powerful emotion in real time, we also remember and know that even when we are feeling such love — that it is still about Jesus, who loved us first.

~Mrs. Perez
